WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—For this section fair tonight and Wednesday; light westerly winds.

Railway Improvements.

The new work which has been prosecuted by the Washington-Southern Railway Company during the past year is now in an advanced stage, and in a short time trains will be using the new tracks. The grading for the double tracks from a point in West End to the bridges over Cameron run, three miles west of this city, is virtually complete. The new tracks will be placed north of those now in use. At Seminary, the first station outside the city, an embankment has been constructed which curves to the northwest for a short distance and then turns to the southwest, extending to the two bridges over which Southern and Washington-Southern trains now pass. The track of the latter road now crosses that of the Southern a few yards west of the bridges. Under the new arrangement Washington-Southern trains will pass above the tracks of the Southern Railway, and the embankments for the bridge are now being constructed. South of this structure a beautiful, massive and durable arch has been constructed over Cameron run, from which the city obtains its water supply. The work north and northwest of Alexandria is being rapidly prosecuted. The embankments on King street extended are approaching completion, while embankments and cuts extend from that point to St. Asaph. Half a dozen steam shovels are at work between that point and Four-mile run.

Funerals.

The funeral of the late William J. Burroughs took place at 9:30 o'clock this morning from the residence, No. 228 1/2 Washington street. The cortege proceeded to St. Mary's Church, where a mass of requiem was celebrated. The members of Fitzgerald Council, Knights of Columbus, and the Machinists' Union, of which the deceased was a member, attended the service, which was conducted by Rev. Father Culter. The pallbearers were Dr. M. Delaney and Messrs. Mahlon Davis, Geo. Pettet, Herbert McCuen, Wm. Greenwood and Wm. Kelly. Miss Mai R. Greenwell sang "Face to Face" in a very impressive manner during the services in the church.

The funeral of Mr. Edmund Ferree Witmer, who died Sunday morning at the home of his niece, Mrs. William K. Boswell, near Waterbury, Md., took place this morning from the First Presbyterian Church, Park avenue and Madison street, Baltimore. Rev. Donald Guthrie conducted the services. The remains reached this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the southbound Chesapeake and Ohio train and were conveyed to the cemetery where the interment took place. The commitment services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Brookes and the pallbearers were Mr. P. J. Dempsey and five nephews of the deceased.

To Run Through to Washington

Commencing tomorrow the locomotives attached to Southern Railway passenger trains will run through to Washington. For the past third of a century engines and engineers have been changed at this place for the reason that it was not considered safe to run the heavy locomotives over the Long Bridge. Since the new structure has been erected, however, all classes of rolling stock pass between Alexandria and Washington, and there is no longer any reason to change locomotives. The Southern, Washington-Southern and Chesapeake and Ohio Railways are using what are known as Pacific trailers, a class of large and improved locomotives. They are twelve-wheelers, six driving, four truck and two trailers, the latter being placed under the cabs. The Southern Railway Company has introduced a pattern of freight engines known as the "seven hundred" class. They are larger and more powerful than any heretofore used on the road. Recently a double-header of this pattern pulled a train of one hundred and sixty-old empty freight cars.

Brakeman Killed.

Fred. L. Miller, brakeman on the Southern Railway, was killed yesterday morning in the yards in Danville. Miller was in the act of coupling two cars when the engineer of a freight train ran into the caboose. The drawbars broke and he was caught between the cars and crushed to death. Engineer Baker, of the train that caused the crash, said that, owing to a dense fog, he was unable to see the train ahead of him. Miller was a single man, about 25 years old, and a resident of High Point, N. C.

The Right to Register.

On appeal from the decision of the registration board of Leesburg, Judge C. E. Nicol holds that a person who became of age at any time prior to the election in November could register upon paying his poll tax of $1.50. The board denied the right of registration on the ground that the poll tax had not been paid six months prior to the election.

Declined the Bishopric.

A telegram received at Louisville, Ky., yesterday, announces that the Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd, now of New York, who was recently elected to the Episcopal bishopric of Kentucky, has declined that office. Dr. Lloyd formerly resided in this city, where he has many friends and relatives. He is now among the prominent clergymen of the Episcopal Church.

Port Paragraphs.

The barge George B. Roberts, from Philadelphia, with coal to W. A. Smoot & Co., has arrived.

The work of digging the steamer T. V. Arrowsmith from the mud at River-side, Md., is almost completed, and it is said the boat will be floated within a day or two.

Fire in the County.

A house belonging to Oille Lell, situated in Alexandria county, was burned last night. The building was unoccupied, and is believed to have been set on fire. The loss will amount, it is said, to about $1,200.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners will be held tomorrow night.

Personal

Mr. H. Linden Wheatley has been appointed clerk, Thomas J. McFarland substitute clerk, and Edward Power substitute letter carrier at the postoffice in this city.

Miss Virginia Brooke, of Alexandria, is in the city visiting Mrs. W. C. Bentley, 705 east Franklin street.—[Richmond News-Leader.]

Mr. John T. Downey, jr., has gone to St. Louis, where he will remain for two weeks.

Entertainment Last Night.

An appreciative audience gathered at the Opera House last night to hear the dramatic recital of Mrs. Martha S. Gielow. Her delineations of old-time colored individuals were perfect as well as amusing. Mrs. Gielow gave a vivid picture of home life on the old plantation in bygone years. She is an author of some note, having already published two books, "Mammy's Reminiscences" and "Life on the Old Plantation," besides a play, "The Southern Volunteer."

The Burnett Case.

The trial of R. C. Burnett, indicted for purchasing two barrels of whisky, knowing them to have been stolen, begun in the Corporation Court yesterday, was continued today. The evidence has been substantially as given last month. Messrs. Moncure and Machen are defending the accused and the prosecution is being conducted by Corporation Attorney Brent. At 4 o'clock this evening the examination of witnesses had not been concluded.

Police Court.

There were but two cases before Justice Caton in the Police Court this morning. A white man, who had been arrested by Officer Knight for vagrancy and habitual drunkenness, was sent to jail for 30 days. Four boys who had been arrested by Officer Beach, charged with disorderly conduct, were dismissed.

Retreat.

Rev. Father Sullivan, C. S. P., will on the 4th proximo open a retreat for the girls of St. Mary's Academy and the young women of the congregation of St. Mary's Church. The services of the retreat will be held in the chapel at St. Mary's Academy, southeast corner of Prince and Columbus streets.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mrs. Julia A. Atwell has sold to Mr. Charles Bendheim two houses and lots Nos. 513 and 515 Queen street.

Mary J. Henderson, an old and respected colored resident, died at her home in the northwestern part of the city last night.

Mr. Geo. W. Poole has the contract and has commenced the erection of a house in Falls Church for Mr. Robert Aitchison, of the firm of Aitchison & Bro., of this city.

A bus will leave the corner of King and Washington streets tomorrow, Wednesday, evening, at 7 o'clock for the Golf Club house, where a subscription card party will be given.

Mrs. Biner Deavers, wife of Mr. Horace Deavers, died at her home near Franconia, Fairfax county, last night. Her funeral will take place from Beulah Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Marriage licenses were issued in Washington yesterday to Arthur H. Buell, of Herndon, and Mahel J. Frye; William J. Harrison and Nellie C. Inskeep, of Culpeper county, and to Charles Barbee and Mollie V. Cornwell, both of Canova.

The remains of Andrew Bell, colored, who fell down a stairway in a house on south Pitt street Sunday evening and broke his neck, will be interred tomorrow afternoon by Demaine & Son. All efforts to locate relatives of the unfortunate man have proven futile.

A horse attached to a car loaded with oysters attracted a crowd on Prince street, near Royal, about noon today by falling on the electric railway track and getting one leg above the shaft. The animal lay on its left side and kicked viciously in attempts to extricate its limbs and rise to its feet. Several persons who were in the neighborhood at the time tried in removing the harness and placing the horse in a standing position.

James Armstrong and Charles Schreve, of Washington, came here this evening, and becoming disorderly resisted Officers Nicholson, Lyles and Roberts, who arrested them. They left $10 each collateral.

Confession of a Priest.

Rev. Jno. S. Cox, of Wake, Ark., writes: "For 12 years I suffered from Yellow Jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began to use Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for twelve years." If you want a relief medicine for Liver and Kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by E. S. Lendbester & Sons. Only 50c.

Better Than Pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and aid the digestion. For sale at 25 cents per bottle by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.

LOST.

LOST—On Sunday evening between Wolf and Pitt and King and Alfred streets, a small open face SILVER WATCH. Return to Mr. T. J. DAVIS, corner Wolf and Pitt streets, and receive a suitable reward.

Princess of the Asturias Dead.

The Infanta Maria de las Mercedes, Princess of the Asturias, sister of King Alfonso and wife of Prince Charles of Bourbon, gave birth to a daughter Sunday and died yesterday in Madrid.

Infanta Maria de las Mercedes, who had half a dozen other Christian names, after the good old Spanish custom, was born at Madrid on September 11, 1880, and was the eldest child of the late King Alfonso XII. and Queen Maria Christina, Archduchess of Austria. Another daughter was born to Alfonso XII.—the Infanta Maria Theresa. On May 17, 1886, nearly six months after the death of Alfonso XII., a son was born to his widow, and this lad now reigns as Alfonso XIII.

During the six months which elapsed between the death of Alfonso XII. and the birth of the present king the Infanta Mercedes was recognized as Queen of Spain, in pursuance of the law of King Ferdinand VII., the grandfather of Alfonso XII., in setting aside the Salic law.

Prince Charles was born at Gries, near Bozen, in the Austrian Tyrol, on November 10, 1870, and is thus nearly 10 years older than the Infanta. He is the second son of Prince Alfonso, Count of Caserta, a son of King Ferdinand II. of Naples, and half-brother to the late King Francis II., who was driven into exile by Garibaldi in 1861, and sought refuge in Rome until the Italians took possession of that city in the fall of 1870. The Count of Caserta then followed the other members of the Neapolitan branch of the House of Bourbon into a more distant exile, seeking and finding refuge in the dominions of the Emperor of Austria.

Madrid, Oct. 18.—It is learned that the fatal illness of the Princess of Asturias, wife of Prince Charles of Bourbon, and sister of King Alfonso, was caused by chestnuts and acorns of which she partook while walking with her husband in Pardo Park on Saturday last. The child, of which she was prematurely delivered on Sunday, is not expected to live. The princess, it is said, suffered terrible agony before death came to her relief.

The McCue Case.

It has been considered probable that should the State build up a strong case against ex-Mayor McCue, whose trial on the charge of wife murder begins in Charlottesville Tuesday, his attorneys will advance the plea of insanity. It is asserted that there has been insanity in the family, and that McCue's father spent some time in an asylum. It is said that a certain witness of the ex-Mayor will testify that only two or three months ago McCue talked to him in a most absurd way in a manner indicating insanity.

Against this assumption, however, is the fact that McCue recently executed certain mortgages to his attorneys, supposedly for the purpose of securing their fees. Should the insanity plea be made and sustained, these documents, of course would be worthless, and the attorney would have to look elsewhere for their fees.

William and Harry McCue and Miss Ruby McCue, children of the accused ex-mayor, reached Charlottesville yesterday afternoon from Ronceverte, W. Va., where they have been with Newton Dickson, a kinsman. Samuel O. McCue, another son, has been in Charlottesville since Saturday evening.

Dr. Frank H. Crawford, of Mount Sidney, Augusta county, a brother-in-law of the ex-mayor, who testified at the inquest is ill with typhoid fever, and unable to attend the trial. His malady is aggravated by worry over the case, and he wept bitterly when he found he would be unable to come to Charlottesville.

McCue shows no signs of worry over the impending ordeal. As a general thing he sleeps well. Up to a few nights ago he had been going to bed at 12 o'clock. On Sunday night he was asleep by 9. He was somewhat restless Saturday night, and told one of the jail officials the next day that he had dreamed about his wife. Mrs. McCue's photograph is on his table, as are the pictures of his brothers and his children.

A Soldier Marries a Colored Woman.

A bomb from a foreign warship exploding at Fort Mott, near Salem, N. J., would not have made as much excitement among the soldiers of the Forty-second Company, Coast Artillery, as the announcement that John T. Smith, a member of the Hospital Corps, had married a colored woman. As soon as the wedding was confirmed Hospital Surgeon Sparrenberger called for Smith's discharge, and the matter has been referred to President Roosevelt, and a decision is expected in a few days.

During the Spanish American War Smith was a member of the Sixteenth Infantry, stationed at Cuba, and was taken with yellow fever. He was ordered to Camp Wycoff, New York. For two months he hung between life and death, and Sara Wolfer, a negro, a member of the volunteer Red Cross Society, nursed him. A short courtship followed and Smith was ordered to Fort Mott. Letters followed, and about two months ago Sara Wolfer went to Salem, and Tuesday, September 20, they were married by Rev. T. G. Murphy, pastor of New Jerusalem A. U. M. church.

Only a few of Smith's soldier friends attended the wedding, and the matter was kept very quiet. When reprimanded by Surgeon Sparrenberger Smith said that, according to the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, all persons were free, and if President Roosevelt felt free to eat at the same table with a negro, he could feel free to take the girl of his choice for a wife, regardless of color.

The woman is a typical southern negro from Maryland. When asked at her home in Salem yesterday she said: "John and I love each other. We have thrown color-line prejudices aside and love reigns supreme. No matter what the government officers or President Roosevelt decide, we shall live together happily."

London's Smart Set Short of Cash.

There is no more significant sign of the bad times which are prevailing in London than the little economies which are being practiced in regard to clothes. "In all my long experience," said a West End tailor, with an essentially "smart set" practice, "I have never known such a pressure in the repair and renovation line."

"Society is short of money. Ordinary business is slack, but we are inundated with repair orders. Coats are sent to be re-lined, re-kilbed, cleaned and pressed. Trousers have to be turned up, and you may not believe it—sometimes re-seated."

"I am referring to some of my best customers, who a few years ago would never have entertained such an idea. Often enough clothes are quite past repair, and we are obliged to point this out to clients. In such cases the old order was 'Send them to Church Army,' now it is 'Send them back.' What they do with them is a mystery.

"Our usual prices, which are seven guineas for a jacket suit, 84 guineas for a morning suit and 10 guineas for a frock coat suit, were once considered reasonable enough; now they provoke a regrettable amount of discussion."

"It is certainly a busy time," said the manager of a cleaning and dyeing establishment in Belgravia. "We expect a rush at this season of the year, as ladies have their summer costumes dyed for winter wear; but it is quite a new thing to receive so many gentlemen's suits to be dyed."

Fight with a Mad Dog.

With his arms torn and bleeding and his clothing literally clawed from his body, Arthur Smith, leader of the Able Opera House orchestra, at Easton, Pa., choked a mad bulldog to death after a struggle which lasted for 20 minutes, Sunday afternoon, thereby saving Misses Sue and Mary Danner from being badly bitten or killed. The young women, who are daughters of State Senator Thomas Danner, were accompanying Smith for a walk and they allowed their father's pet bulldog to go along with them. When the young people were on their way home they noticed the dog acting strangely. Suddenly the animal began to growl, and a couple of moments later it made a vicious attack upon Miss Sue Danner. Seizing a club, Smith struck the dog and caused it to break its hold upon its victim. Luan-bing itself through the air the dog then hurled itself at Miss Mary Danner's throat. Again did Smith force the dog aside. Springing to one side as the infuriated brute advanced, the young musician caught the canine by the back of its neck. A second later both hands surrounded the bulldog's throat. Then began a terrific battle. Fighting until it tore all the flesh upon the arms of its conqueror, the brute only showed greater strength, and Smith began to suffer from exhaustion. But the musician kept a firm grasp on its neck, at the same time warning the young ladies to flee. They were unable to move for 20 minutes while the fight lasted. At the end of that time the dog had been choked to death.
